

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A repair device which includes an intermittent coating of PSA on a first side of a sheet of release paper. The cured PSA may be easily transferred to a surface by pressing the release paper against the surface thereby effectively

- 5 transferring the intermittent coating of PSA to the surface. The improved repair device is useful for repairing delaminated or detached wallpaper, holding wall patch repair devices in place during the application of spackling or repair compound and holding door hinges in place during the installation thereof.